

FCC Commissioners
The Federal Communications Commission RE: Docket 04-435
445 12th Street, SW
Washington, DC 20554

Dear FCC Commissioners ,

I am writing to voice my concerns about the FCC's proposal to relax the restrictions on the use of cell phones on airplanes in flight.

Putting to the side for a moment the science of the matter and the notion of terrorist coordination, the core issue is sanity. Cell phones on public transit of any variety are a bad idea. The lack of user etiquette, particularly the notion adopted by too many users that they must scream into the phone, is horrific. If you think booze on planes leads to unnecessary conflict, put one bozo on a plane from Boston to LA with a loud voice, a cell phone, and hours to kill talking with his friends about life's inanities. If the guy survives the trip, I'd be stunned.

Cell phones on planes are a very, very bad thing. Don't allow them. Please leave the current rules in effect.

Sincerely,

Noah Warman
